501evolved RATES

The table below outlines estimates of how engagements of various durations affect the hourly rate. Different organizations need different levels of engagement or time commitment from their technology partner at different times. Those changing needs also affect the consultant's overhead and ability to support its' own operations. The higher level of engagement usually results in lower overhead, which leads to a lower hourly rate.

The concept of a "block" used in the table below helps estimate how much projects of different duration will cost.

	Hourly rate	Cost per block*	Monthly spend with annual contract
Base hourly rate:	$175.00	n/a	n/a
10-hour block:	$165.00	$1,650.00	$1,320
20-hour block:	$155.00	$3,100.00	$2,480
30-hour block:	$145.00	$4,350.00	$3,480
40-hour block:	$135.00	$5,400.00	$4,320
80-hour block:	$100.00	$8,000.00	$8,000

When considering long-term contracts, for example hiring 501evolved as a fractional CIO, additional discounts will apply:

A 1-year contract or longer will result in a 20% discount off all rates, not to drop below $100/hr. Long-term contracts are essentially staff-augmentation arrangements where 501evolved becomes a part of your team and performs a wide variety of tasks and duties that are normally expected from a CIO, but at a fraction of the cost and with no complexities of having a full-time employee.

NOTE: Time blocks can be purchased without a specific project, in which case they are required to be time-bound, as if they were projects with deadlines. Time block discounts only apply if the purchased block is used within 30 days after the work covered by the purchase starts.
